Children's hospice palliative care: it takes a village

fireside chat

Directly or indirectly, we all have a role to play in the interconnected networks of care required to deliver children's hospice palliative care ("the village").

Whether you are new to the field or have years of experience, join us and bring your perspective to a discussion exploring the ways we can all work together to help short lives be amazing lives.

Host: Chris Vadeboncoeur, Medical Director, Palliative Care Program at CHEO and Roger Neilson House and Co-chair, Canadian Network Of Palliative Care For Children (CNPCC)

Presenter: Dave Lysecki, Head, Quality of Life & Advanced Care at McMaster Children's Hospital & Pediatric Palliative Medicine at McMaster University
